[From the London Telegraph of Dec. 23d.]
England Suspicious of Louis Napoleon, and Why.

That Louis Napoleon desired to participate in our proceedings is known; but most certain it is that any intimation to that effect has been, on our side, firmly, but courteously declined; and we can easily perceive that the Emperor has only respected us the more for that decision. We shall, however, understand his conduct better if we glance at a precedent which affords far more than a parallel to the present situation. It will enable us to understand why the reigning sovereign of France desires that England should not have a monopoly of the glory in any Atlantic war, and still more that she should not carry on the war at all. That purchase of Louisiana, which Mr. Jefferson thought so expedient for the United States, although so unconstitutional, was attended, at its very birth, by some cautious and complicated questions. Even then the Texan difficulty was foreseen. The territory virtually belonged by the right of discovery, to Louisiana, and the session of the one almost implied the session of the other. "Was this distinctly understood?" asked some anxious politician; on which Mr. Monroe urged that the Americans should not trouble their heads about their Texan rights, but should concentrate on securing Louisiana, since Texas would as surely fall to them as the pear when it is ripe would fall into the lap from its stem. The simile was afterwards publicly used by Mr. Adams; but its real author was Monroe, who was subsequently charged with the special mission of ascertaining whether Spain interposed any obstacle to the cession of Louisiana from France to the United States. All doubts of the kind had been removed, and Monroe had joined the other plenipotentiaries in Paris; every condition had been settled; nothing remained but to affix the signatures to the treaty; and all the ambassadors were assembled for the purpose, awaiting only the presence of Napoleon I. He entered the room, folded his arms in the manner so characteristic of him, and, seeming to forget the work in hand, walked up and down with an abstracted air, as if there were still much to ponder on before proceeding to business. Suddenly he looked round and asked "What price was to be given for the ceded province?" In utter astonishment at a question so late in the proceedings, Mr. Livingston said the price already proposed and accepted by France was 60,000,000 of francs. "What?" cried Napoleon, "a mere bagatelle!" and, from the indignation of his manner, the plenipotentiaries imagined for a moment that he was about to retract from the bargain. But suddenly changing, he exclaimed, "Very well; let it go. It will create a power that will one day or other contest the supremacy of the seas with Great Britain." Subsequent events seemed to confirm that calculation of the First Napoleon, and even within the last few months the Executive at Washington has boasted of creating something else—a navy which, in its augmented form, as was shown, about one-fourth or one-fifth of that possessed by Great Britain. We cannot now misunderstand the point from which the Third Napoleon views the present situation of affairs between England and the Northern States. He sees the approach of a war in which—to use the only term which conveys the idea—the navy of the transatlantic power would be smashed. In that event, the object sought by the uncle through the otherwise mortifying surrender of Louisiana would be torn from the hands of the nephew.

[From the London Times of December 25th.]
England and France to Rule the World.

A correspondent, whose letter we inserted a few days ago, has accused us of overlooking the point of Mr. Cobden's argument in favor of arbitration. To whose arbitration should the question be referred? England, as having made the proposition, would be required to name an arbitrator. But to any one whom she should name there would be sure to exist the strongest objections. If she were to name the Emperor of the French, America might argue, with great reason, that the Emperor of the French had already expressed an opinion adverse to and subversive of her claims. If we should take the Emperor of Austria America might urge that he would be a partial judge in such a case, from the treatment he received in the rescue of Col. Turr; and, indeed, by the very last advices we observe that Count Rechberg has intimated to the American Government that the British demand for reparation is fully justified. If we took the Emperor of Russia, something might be made of the very close relations which exist between the colony of Sitka and the Hudson Bay Company. One Power would be too small and another too large and it is impossible to say how long diplomatic industry might keep the decision in suspense. On the other hand, supposing the offer to be made by America, with every conceivable circumstance of apparent fairness and moderation, what third power are we likely to agree upon as the arbitrator of the question at issue, and the holder of the prisoners pendente lite? France has already spoken, and has pronounced in our favor. With England and France agreed, what third power would be listened to if it presumed to differ?

A LONG JUMP.—Capt. Pickett, formerly in command of the U. S. garrison on San Juan Island, and who was in command of the American force first landed there during the excitement in 1859, recently resigned from the Federal army and joined the rebels, and has received the appointment of Brigadier-General in the Confederate army under Jeff. Davis. Quite a jump—from a captain to a general.—Colonist.

Not so long a jump as he took when he forgot allegiance to the Government which made him what he is.—Northwest.

Not so long a jump as he will take when he jumps from time into eternity, at the end of a rope, which we hope soon to hear of his doing.—Puget Sound Herald.

THE LOVE OF CHANGE.—A sovereign once broken into soon goes, and it is the same with a resolution. A resolution unbroken is hard as gold; once change it, and it is thrown, as it were, into so many coppers and rapidly melts away.

Money is made for the comfort and convenience of animal life; it cannot be a reward for what mere animal life must indeed sustain but never can inspire.

Advice is like snow, the softer it falls the longer it dwells upon, and the deeper it sinks into the mind.

Only Give it a Fair Trial.—We ask no more of any one, than to give Jayne's Expectant a fair trial, to prove that it will cure the various diseases for which it is recommended sooner and more effectually than any other remedy. You therefore, who suffer with Pulmonary Affections, should not delay, but immediately procure a bottle of this Expectant, and by its use not only save yourselves much suffering, but probably from an early death.

Sold by CURTIS & MOORE and LANGLEY BROS., Victoria.

Throat Affections.—From Rev. E. Rowley, A. M., President Athens College, Athens, Tenn.: "I have found great benefit from the use of 'Brown's Bronchial Troches,' before and after preaching, as they prevent hoarseness, to which I am very subject. I think from their past effect they will be of permanent advantage to me. Several clergymen of my acquaintance to whom I have given the Troches have been benefited by them."

Holloway's Pills.—Slight and Severe Diseases.—It is comforting and satisfactory to know that the operation of these famous Pills is not limited to the cure of those violent internal distempers for which they are successively administered in England and foreign countries. They act also as an immediate corrective in the lesser ailments incident to both sexes. Nothing excels them for curing the diseases of children, such as colic, constipation, headache, worms, and all disorders of the skin. In diseases of the liver, kidneys and spleen they invariably afford immediate relief and ultimate cure. In fact, in all complaints to which mankind is liable no medicine is so efficient.

ROYAL MAIL
Steam Packet
Company's Agency,
For British Columbia & Vancouver Island.

OFFICE, MACDONALD & CO., BANKERS,
Yates Street.

THE ATTENTION OF SHIPPERS
and passengers is respectfully solicited to the superior facilities the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company's Line affords for the speedy conveyance of Treasure, Goods and Passengers to and from England to British Columbia and Vancouver Island, in connection with the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's Vessels and the Panama Railroad. The superiority of the accommodation and entertainment on board the Royal Mail Steamers, together with the time occupied on the passage between England and Aspinwall direct, being so much shorter than by any other route, and the moderate rate of passage money, render this Company's steamers the CHEAPEST AND MOST EXPEDIENT MEANS OF TRANSPORT for passengers or for the forwarding of Goods and Treasure from Aspinwall to Europe. Under an arrangement with the PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP CO. Specie and Bullion can be conveyed to London and Havre in France, covered by insurance, for delivery to the Agent of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company at Panama. An arrangement also exists for the transmission by Express to and from Aspinwall, of measurement goods, jewellery and plate. Merchants in the North Pacific will find it to their advantage to instruct their correspondents to ship their Higher Class Freight from Europe by this Line; and to those concerned in the trade with Havana, the facilities afforded by the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company's Steamers in conveying Merchandise, such as Cigars, &c., through to Panama, without the necessity of the intervention of an Agent, is especially convenient. Arrangements can be made for the shipment of Gold, Silver and Copper Ores, Furs, &c., to Europe from Aspinwall, by the Company's steamers, on favorable terms. Further information on the subject of Freight, Passage Money, and the general arrangement of the Company, will be furnished by the undersigned.

THE BRITISH COLONIST

TO ADVERTISERS.

All advertisements, unless the time for which they are to be inserted is specified, will be continued until ordered out, and so charged.

Tuesday Morning, Feb. 18, 1862.

News by the Cortes.

The dearth of news which we have experienced for some time back has been amply atoned for by the arrival of the Cortes. The centre of attraction for Europe and America still appears to be the civil war in the United States. The Federal Government, noted for its rapid appointment and speedy removal of prominent generals and civilians, has removed Mr. Cameron, Secretary of War, replacing him with Col. Stanton. What the cause of removal may be is not stated in the telegrams; but it is not improbable that it may be owing to Cameron's opinions in favor of emancipation. Welles, Secretary of the Navy, it is rumored will be succeeded by Gen. Banks. What sin Welles has committed is not so clear, except his removal be to soothe England and France after his endorsement of Wilkes; or it may be partially owing to loud complaints about the inefficiency of the naval expeditions. It is also said that Blair, Postmaster General, will resign. So much for Mr. Lincoln's Cabinet, which appears to be re-organising, like Gen. McClellan's army. Among the Confederates the only change of importance of prominent men is the removal of Beauregard to Columbus, Kentucky. He has been superseded by Gen. Smith and President Davis at Manassas. The skill of Beauregard is apparently required in the West to change the order of things, which appears to be rather against the Confederates. Mr. Cameron in getting kicked out of the Cabinet got kicked up stairs to the distinguished post of Minister to Russia, whilst Clay, the noted Abolitionist, who has been filling that mission, has been made a Major-General, doubtless to strengthen Federal influence in his native State, Kentucky. The spring campaign is beginning to open; and if we believe Mr. Morrill—the author of the famous protective tariff that raised the ire of Europe and Secessionism—within ninety days Gen. McClellan will either be a hero or a private gentleman. Such is his opinion breathing doubt—dependent on the wheel of fortune—the chances of war. There has been no movement of the Federals on the Potomac, notwithstanding; but Morrill's language clearly points to activity of some sort. A large expedition under Gen. Burnside had arrived at Pamlico and Albemarle Sounds in North Carolina, the object of which is evidently to threaten Richmond from those two points, and distract the attention of the Confederate army at Manassas, whilst the forces at Port Royal and Fort Pulaski keep the Confederates in South Carolina and Georgia in hot water. A rumored attack on Norfolk is also in circulation. If the Federal Cabinet intend going to Richmond these three movements indicate the right quarters to reach it from. Besides which they would get closely in the rear of Manassas, whilst Gen. McClellan faced the music in front. So within the next ninety days we may expect some decided results of the spring campaign in Eastern Virginia. Along the Gulf nothing has been done except a naval descent on the town of Biloxi Mississippi, in which the Federal fleet were successful, and then left.

In the Great West is where military movements are of more immediate interest. The change of Beauregard to the command at Columbus, Kentucky, is full of meaning. The Confederate commanders in the West are evidently not what President Davis would like them to be. They have brought about a crisis. The defeat of Zollicoffer and his army of 10,000 men at Somerset, Kentucky, by the Federal General, Thomas, opens Eastern Tennessee to the Federal army. The occupancy of East Tennessee is evidently a part of Lincoln's Western policy. For we find that besides Gen. Thomas at Cumberland River, on the line of Kentucky and Tennessee, that two expeditions from Cairo, under Gen. Grant, are moving in the same direction. Both of these are destined to reduce Columbus, Kentucky, a short distance down the Mississippi below Cairo. Columbus is a great point for the Confederates to hold; hence the important mission of Beauregard as its commander. But of the three Cairo expeditions against the Confederate army of 15,000 at that point—one penetrates by Cumberland River, another by land, and the fleet by the Mississippi. The next steamer ought, consequently, to bring us news of stirring events in that quarter—and it is not at all improbable that the Federals will be successful, as they were moving in great force. To enter Tennessee, Columbus, Kentucky, has to be conquered. Such an enemy cannot be left in the rear either to attack the Federals or succor the Confederate forces in Missouri. If we look at the movement of the expedition on the coast of North Carolina, and the movement into Tennessee, the inference is that the Federals intend to surround the Manassas army, or force Davis to break up and move South. The Confederate General, Price, has made his appearance at Lexington, Missouri, so the war is still to go on there; and as winter breaks up in that bleak region, he and his compatriots will be heard from, and Gen. Halleck may have his hands full.

A Federal expedition, it is said, will leave Kansas under Gen. Hunter and enter Arkansas. If so, Price will be menaced front and rear.

The bearing of England and France toward the United States since the settlement of the Mason and Slidell difficulty appears peaceable. The American papers are concerned about France objecting to the stoppage of Charleston harbor with stone; and the English and French papers are nearly unanimous in urging upon their respective governments the necessity of not permitting such a thing. But we cannot believe that there is much chance to make a casus belli out of the matter. The neutrality will be strictly maintained. No interference of European Powers is likely to take place till they find that the Confederates possess the ability to maintain their independence. Then France and England will recognize them. If, subsequent to the recognition of their independence—should that event ever occur—the blockade prove ineffective, it is not at all likely that they may then interfere to break it up; for it is not to be supposed that the trade of Europe will be allowed to suffer through any nervousness about interfering with a blockade—that is only one in name—set up by a belligerent incapable of making one effective. Till after the recognition of the independence of the South—an event very doubtful—matters between England and France and the United States will go on smoothly. Nothing but a flagrant outrage against the rights of those Powers—one from which the States will not back down—will ever change the peaceful relations now existing.

The Death of the Prince Consort.

The confirmation of the report of the demise of Prince Albert was received here by all classes—as we doubt not it was received throughout the length and breadth of the Old and New Worlds—with heartfelt sorrow. The flags of the Government Buildings and of the Harbor Master's Office were at half-mast during the day, official intimation of the mournful occurrence having reached the Executive by the Cortes. His Excellency Governor Douglas has most appropriately issued a call to Her Majesty's loving subjects resident here to manifest their grief at the sad event which has bereft our beloved Queen of a fond husband and a wise counsellor, and the nation of a good Prince and a sagacious statesman. Prince Albert passed from earth at precisely ten minutes to eleven o'clock on the night of the 14th December, 1861, in the 43rd year of his age. The obsequies took place on the 23d of the same month. On the 16th—two days subsequent to the demise of the Prince Consort—orders for the Court to go into mourning were issued: "The ladies attending Court to wear black woollen stuffs, trimmed with erape, plain linen, black shoes and gloves, and erape fans; the gentlemen attending Court to wear black cloth, plain linen, erape hats, and black swords and buckles." A general mourning was also ordered, it being "expected that all persons do put themselves into decent mourning." In France and the German States the manifestations of sorrow were general and sincere.

COLONIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
February 17, 1862.

The subjoined despatch announcing to this Government the melancholy intelligence of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort, is hereby published for general information.

No official intimation has yet been received by this Government of the ceremonial of general mourning to be observed by the Nation at large; but His Excellency the Governor does not delay to call upon the Queen's loving subjects to testify their regret and sympathy upon this distressing occasion by putting themselves into decent mourning.

By command of His Excellency,
WILLIAM A. G. YOUNG,

DOWLING STREET,
December 16, 1862.

SIR:—It is with the deepest regret that I have to communicate to you the melancholy intelligence of the death of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort.

His Royal Highness expired at Windsor Castle, on the night of the 14th instant, at 10 minutes before 11 o'clock, to the inexpressible grief of Her Majesty, the Royal Family and the Nation.

I have the honor, etc.,
NEWCASTLE.
To Governor Douglas, C. B.
etc., etc., etc.

EPNER'S MAP OF CARIBOO.—This new map of the British Columbian gold regions has been compiled from maps in the possession of the government, and from information furnished by reliable and intelligent miners, by Mr. Gustavus Epner of this city. It is said to be the most reliable guide to the diggings yet issued, and Col. Moody and the Royal Engineers, together with many parties who are conversant with the country, speak highly of its merits as conveying a correct idea of the location of Cariboo and other sections of our gold fields. Published by Hibben & Carswell, Stationers' Hall.

THE "LUNAR VISITOR."—This is the name of a small journal about half the size of the COLONIST, published at San Francisco by the Rev. J. J. Moore, a colored minister, who formerly resided at Salt Spring Island in this colony. The editorial and selected matter in the numbers before us appear to be got up with great care and taste, and no doubt will have a good effect in furthering the principal object of the journal—the elevation of the African race. It deserves encouragement from our colored population.

FALL OF THE STAFF OF LIFE.—Housekeepers will be delighted to learn that notwithstanding the high price of flour, bread has taken a great fall. The example has been set by an ill-bred horse attached to the cart of the London Bakery, who ran away yesterday morning and upsetting the cart, tilted a whole batch of hot bread out on James' Bridge.

A WHISKY SELLER.—John Wafal was caught by Serg't Blake and officer Taylor, on Sunday evening, while selling an Indian bottle of Aged Thomas. The Police subsequently searched his house and found five cases of the same delightful beverage secreted therein, all of which was duly confiscated to the Crown. Mr. Pemberton fined John £20.

THE COLD IN OR. GON.—At the Deschutes the mercury fell to the bulb and the thermometer burst. Two more of the Jagger party have died from the effects of the frost—Mr. Clemens and Mr. Mulvey. Mr. Jeffries, who will be remembered by many Caribooites now resident here as engaged in the butchering business on Antler Creek, has lost both feet from the effects of frost.

"BREACH OF TRUST."—A colored man named William Henry Harrison was arrested yesterday upon a warrant issued on complaint of a squaw, who alleges that she gave him over $90 on Sunday night last, to keep for her, and when she applied for it he told her that he had given the money to a policeman. Harrison was locked up until today.

THE "CORTES."—This steamer on Sunday night discharged her freight for this place and left for San Juan Island, Port Townsend, and Bellingham Bay, to land the volunteers and live stock. She is expected back this morning, and will leave at seven o'clock for San Francisco via Portland.

RAILROAD PORTAGE.—The Columbia River Navigation Company are about to construct a railroad from the Dalles to Deschutes, Oregon, a distance of fifteen miles, for the purpose of making the portage around the rapids more expeditious and safe.

FOR STRICKEN RIVER.—The schooner Langley, with four passengers and a supply of provisions, was announced to leave for Choquette's Diggings last night.

THE "CORTES" FREIGHT.—The freight by the steamship Cortes on Sunday was brought to Union Wharf yesterday by the steamer Otter and the Hudson Bay Company's scow.

THE SCHOONER SURPRISE.—With the party of thirteen Caribooites, will sail for Bentinck Arm this afternoon.

THE BROTHER JONATHAN should have left San Francisco yesterday, and will be due here on the 24th.

AT ESQUIMALT.—The schooner Towanda, lumber-laden for Hilo, Sandwich Islands, arrived in Esquimalt harbor yesterday morning, and will sail in a day or two for her destination.

FOR BURNARD'S INLET.—The Emily Harris will leave for Burnard's Inlet at 2 o'clock to-day; and the Otter is up for the same destination, to leave to-morrow.

FLOUR.—Superfine is held at $9 and Extra at $10 per barrel in this market.

Cariboo Mining Laws—Tunnels.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST:—Please permit me through your columns to say a few words in answer to Mr. Downie's letter of that 14th inst. This gentleman was considerably mixed up with the law-makers at Sierra County, California. There the law gives a man the right to take up 100 feet front and running back into Table Mountain for the distance of 5 miles. Mr. Downie asks to take an instance of four men taking up 200 feet square on the side of a hill of the common size in Cariboo, viz.: 1000 feet high and three miles across. They put up a house and go to work, strike the lead 175 feet from their front line, leaving them only 25 feet of the claim to work profitably. Some smart fellows have been watching and cut them off by taking up the rear claim. This is truly a hard case! But how far does Mr. Downie want to travel into the hills for general observation. He might like to tunnel through for trail purposes. Take an instance. It would shorten the distance between Williams' Creek and Antler. The lead may run from one to the other. I believe that is said gentleman's opinion. Such an operation would be a decided bore, especially for the working men. If men want to tunnel let them adopt the general system of California, that is to say, the right of way through front claims to rear ones is recognized, so that the front claims be not otherwise interfered with.

Men seldom take the chance of running a long tunnel into a hill without first prospecting from the top. If any particular case in tunnel mining should require judiciously in Cariboo, would it not be better to call a meeting where the claim could be actually viewed, than to draw up a code of laws in Victoria which might not suit in actual practice. And why cannot the Governor be asked to grant Mr. Elwyn, now in town, the right to sanction tunnel laws made by miners in Cariboo, thus obviating the necessity of awaiting an answer from Victoria, should an instance occur as cited by Mr. Downie. The men would not then be placed in a worse position than others, who after prospecting for months often find diggings for others to profit by. Instance: Williams and Antler Creeks. The discoverers of Antler took up some of the poorest claims on the creek, not being able to prospect on account of the severity of the weather. They were afterwards crowded out by those who hunted them down, after they had crossed and recrossed snow clad mountains, braved the freezing winds, chilling their life blood, and endured the pangs of knowing hunger.

AN OLD CALIFORNIAN.

Colored Question.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST:—I notice in your paper of Saturday an article headed "Another Insult," purporting to emanate from a "colored man." Now I have only to say that doubtless he has a colored heart, but he has a white face. He is a part of the same clique in this town who have been thrashed, snubbed and defeated in every attempt to thrust their obnoxious and prescriptive ideas of political and conventional policy upon Englishmen, and now, as a last effort, they resort to forgery to effect their ends, which is distinguished alike for its cowardice and meanness.

Under the nom de plume of "colored man" they are anxious to impress our true friends that we are both "ignorant and presumptuous;" that we "do not know in what our rights consist;" that we "are never satisfied,"—"spoiled," &c., &c. In what better way can we do this than by an article assuming to emanate from a colored man. But gentlemen, it won't do—as low as you have gone down you must go down lower. In the meantime there is a "chief among ye takin' notes, an' faith he'll print em." The writer of this has observed this class of bipeds since 1858. They are "playing out" very fast, and in general will leave here with exhausted purses, and what is far worse very questionable characters.

Yours respectfully,
SIMON PURE.

The Colored Question.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST:—In your Saturday's issue a communication made its appearance which has caused an unusual amount of criticism and disapprobation signed a "Colored Man." Such a trashy and uncalculated complaint should be denounced in the severest terms. * * * The "Colored man's" feelings must have been swayed to an intense heat of sensitiveness or a high-wrought emotion of stupidity.

I trust and hope the intelligent and gentlemen did not believe that correspondence on Saturday contained the sentiments of any intelligent colored men in Victoria. In the name of common sense is there anything to be offended at in an "Ethiopian entertainment?" I would go to one to-morrow night or any other time, and many others no doubt would do the like. Whoever the writer may be, whether he (it) is to be the hackneyed and often misapplied expression "colored or white," he should be openly brought before the public and exposed for such a nonsensical effusion. Sir, I am strongly persuaded by my own sentiments that the writer of that communication in question had some narrow contracted object in view. He originated it to produce a baseless effect, a sensation, or he intended to place both parties in a conflicting and antagonistic state.

Victoria, Feb'y 16th, 1862.

STRICKEN OFF.—The names of several young U. S. army officers, who have expressed the opinion that the South cannot be whipped, have recently been stricken from the rolls.

QUINOV.—A lady of trained nurses, on Miss Florence Nightingale's plan, were to proceed at once to Halifax from Liverpool.
